

UP TO DATE.

Ideas are characteristic of the American people. Each succeeding season brings a flood of new patterns, new fads, new fancies, and how quickly the "Old" is banished for the new. In "Dress" this is most strikingly apparent. Our ideal high class goods are the correct things. Most of our new goods are in and if you have not already seen them, lose no time in calling on us. Our buyers have bought the finest stock of

COCONINO CYCLING CLUB.

Fourth Annual Run to Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

From Flagstaff to the Rim—River—the Near Points of Interest; Thence Returning Around San Francisco Peaks.

THE START will be made at 8 o'clock A. M. from the rooms of the Coconino Cycling Club, Flagstaff, Arizona, September 7. The 8th, 9th and 10th will be spent at the Canyon, and the return trip made on the 11th.

THE DISTANCE to the hotel at the Canyon is about seventy miles. The trip can be made in from eight to twelve hours, according to the speed and endurance of the rider. Any good amateur rider can make the ride in from ten to twelve hours.

THE ROAD is good and level, in the main, although there are some heavy grades on it. It winds among the foot-hills and over the lower slopes of the San Francisco mountains for the first twenty to twenty-five miles, passing through a fine forest of pine for this distance. The succeeding twenty-five miles leads through a rolling prairie region, and for the remainder of the distance the road runs through the Coconino Forest, which here skirts the rim of the Canyon for several miles.

A rest station, where lunch will be prepared, is found at Cedar Ranch, about half way to the Canyon.

TEMPERATURE. CONTRARY to the popular idea suggested by the word "Arizona," the temperature of this region, owing to its altitude, seldom rises above 85 deg. Fahr., even in midsummer, and the mornings and evenings are delightfully cool and pleasant. No finer summer climate can be found anywhere in the United States.

SCENERY. THE ENTIRE ROUTE to the Canyon is a succession of interesting and beautiful sights. The dim, shadowy vistas of the pine forest stretching away on either side, the charming little glades and valleys with which its expanse is broken here and there, the magnificent views of the noble San Francisco triad, the changing hues and shapes of the cliffs and hills along the road, the black carpet of volcanic clinders to the right, Sunset Crater with its somber slopes and crest of eternal sunshine, all combine to make the first twenty miles of the journey a scenic panorama of indescribable beauty, while the fragrance of the pines and the crisp, fresh mountain air render every breath a delight.

Passing out of the pines, the road stretches away over the prairie region already referred to. Many of the hills of this vicinity are extinct craters, some of them timberless, some covered with scrub junipers. The view throughout this part of the journey is very extensive. Off to the westward rise Kendrick and Sitgreave mountains and Red Butte, while to the northeast, some fifty miles away, its varied hues shimmering and blending in the sunlight, lies the Painted Desert, one of the most unique and most exquisite sights in the entire Rocky Mountain region.

Up from the prairie, the forest is entered again, and when the hotel at the Canyon is reached, it is found, surrounded by the stately whispering pines, in a little glen just at the brink of this wondrous, mighty gorge. But the crowning scenic feature, of course, is the Canyon. Whatever fatigue one may have endured on the journey is forgotten at the sight of this mighty gorge, eighteen miles in breadth, 4,000 feet deep. No imagination can conceive, no mind can comprehend, its grandeur or its extent. A marvelous, wide-spreading labyrinth of towering, castellated cliffs and massive, crested buttes, hewn into every conceivable shape by the power of wind and water, and all with such matchless blending of rich coloring and with such inexpressible effect of distance and depth that the brain fairly reels at the mere endeavor to take it in. On the brink of this grandest piece of all Dame Nature's handiwork, one lingers for hours, yet never wearied with its attractions. There is not upon the earth a sight more worth the seeing.

ACCOMMODATIONS. GOOD HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS, at special rates, will be provided at Flagstaff for all who may attend the run. Lunch will be served, as has been stated, at Cedar Ranch, the half-way station on the Canyon road. At the Canyon a hotel has been established by the Railroad Company, where first-class meals will be furnished and good tent accommodations for sleeping purposes afforded.

EXPENSE. THE COCONINO CYCLING CLUB will arrange and meet all expenses of the run, charging each participant $11.00. This will include sleeping accommodations and board at the Canyon, meals en route and transportation for baggage not to exceed twenty-five pounds, but does not include expenses at Flagstaff.

MISCELLANEOUS. IN ORDER to insure accommodations, notice should be sent to the Secretary of the Club by September 1st of intention to participate in the run. The Club will endeavor to arrange for all who may come, but will not guarantee accommodations for any who may send their names later than the date above mentioned.

In addition to the scenery on the road and at the Canyon, there are many points of interest in and about Flagstaff that will well repay a visit. Among these may be mentioned the Cliff and Cave Dwellings ruins of a long-past age; the San Francisco mountains, whose summit affords one of the finest and most comprehensive landscape views to be found in the United States; Sunset Crater and the lava regions about it; Oak Creek Canyon, with its trout fishing and romantic scenery, and a great number of lakes, canyons, springs and hills, each having its own peculiar attractions. Also from this point a trip may be advantageously made to the Montezuma Well and Castle; or to the Great Natural Bridge of Tonto Basin; or to Cataract Canyon, with its magnificent waterfalls, and the picturesque settlement of the Yavapai Indians, located in this Canyon.

Riders will find it much to their advantage to fit wheels used on this trip with gear not exceeding 66 and also with coasters and brake.

BRAND RECORDING.
Of Interest and Importance to Every Cattleman in Arizona.

We received the following from the Live Stock Sanitary Board, with a request to publish same in our "excellent paper." As it is of great importance to the live stock interests we gladly comply with the request:

It is of the greatest importance to the cattlemen of Arizona that they should know of the provisions of the late law, with reference to brand recording, and after knowing the provisions, proceed without unnecessary delay to comply with the law.

The new law makes it compulsory that all brands be recorded in the office of the Live Stock Sanitary Board instead of with the County Recorder of the several counties, which county record books have been done away with in so far as they constitute a public record.

Those who had their brands on county record will request the County Recorder, either in person or by letter, to make out a certificate of such brands on blanks furnished the Recorders. For this they pay a fee of 25 cents to the Recorder. The certificate is signed by the owner of the brand, or his agent, as the case may be, after which it is sent to the office of the secretary of the Sanitary Board at Phoenix. It should be understood in this connection that no brand or mark shall be changed after the certificate has been signed by the Recorder, and his seal affixed. Such changes can be made, but on another blank which will be furnished by the secretary on request.

All brands which have never been recorded heretofore will have to go to public record under the present law, and for which purpose blanks will be furnished by the secretary. This refers to horses as well as cattle; if you have ten different brands on your ranch, you should have them recorded if you desire to be secured in the use of the brand. It is an erroneous idea that only the brand kept up need be placed on record.

If you have other brands, and which from your failing to record, do not appear on such record as taken by anyone, the same will be allowed to the first applicant who may apply for such brand, in which case it might work to the serious disadvantage of the first or original owner of cattle in such brand.

It is intended to be and certainly will be an advantage to every cattleman in Arizona, and to that end all are urged to take advantage of the provision at the earliest possible moment.

Remember, brands do not have to be burnt on leather as of old. A simple filling out of a blank will be all that is required, which blank the County Recorder will furnish if your brand has been recorded. If it has not been on record request a blank from the secretary at Phoenix.

In all cases of brands which have been on county record, a fee of 25 cents is paid to the Recorder of the county. In all other cases the fee is $1 for each and every brand, payable by check or money order to the Sanitary Board, and must accompany the application. This covers the cost of recording and a certificate under the seal of the board.

The reader will confer a favor both on his fellowman and the Sanitary Board by making this as widely known as possible. The better plan perhaps would be to clip this out and carry it in your pocket, where it can easily be referred to.

The dividend declared this month by the Anaconda Copper Mining Company was at the rate of 5 per cent on its capital stock of $30,000,000, and was therefore for the handsome sum of 1,500,000. This makes total to the amount of $3,750,000 since May 1st of last year.

A peculiar death occurred here last week. Tomoko, a storekeeper in the camps and a singer in the tribe, frenzied with grief at the death of his child commenced the death dance accompanying it with the singing of a dirge and rattling of a gourd. Around and around his dead child and in and out among the dusky mourners marched Tomoko. Hours passed and still he kept up his wild incantations. Suddenly his form swayed to and fro, one awful groan burst from his lips, and he dropped dead. He had sung his own requiem.—Yuma Sentinel.

The factory season at Eddy has closed and the results are summed up about this way: A few thousand pounds of seed were sown, 14,000 tons of beets were harvested. Twelve or fourteen thousand acres were planted, which cost about $22 per acre to do the work necessary to harvest them. They brought an average of $4.50 per ton, hence about $63,000 were paid to the farmers of the valley for beets alone, no mean amount these hard times. The factory shipped 130 carloads of sugar. It has a capacity of two hundred tons a day and can support 70,000 people with sugar.—Pecos New Mexico, Valley News.

According to a bulletin upon the sugar beet, just issued by the Arizona Experiment Station, Tucson, Arizona, the first beet sugar factory erected in Germany was put upon the estate of Baron de Kapp in 1805. This was a small affair, being capable of working up but 525 tons of beet roots per year. This is in great contrast to the modern factory. The one at Watsonville, California, worked last year 1400 tons in one day, and a factory is being built at Salinas, California, with a capacity for working 3000 tons of beets in 24 hours. At the Watsonville factory last year there was manufactured a total of twenty thousand tons of sugar.

BABBITT BROS.
Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicines will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1 per bottle at D. J. Brannen's drug store.
